ABSTRACT

This extensive list of the council members of the Peace Education Commission (PEC) from 1992-1994 gives mailing addresses and some telephone and fax numbers to enable direct contact with network members. The Peace Education Commission (PEC) facilitates international cooperation among individuals interested in peace education and research related to peace education. Operating via a Council and an Executive Secretary, the main ambition of PEC is to serve as a useful network for transnational information and the support of the peace education field through a newsletter service and an updated address list. THE PEC NETWORK 1993

Directory of the Peace Education Commission

Editor
Åke Bjerstedt

The Peace Education Commission (PEC) was established to facilitate international cooperation among individuals interested in peace education and research related to peace education. It operates via a Council and an Executive Secretary (at present located in Sweden). The main ambition of PEC is to serve as a useful network for transnational information and support in the peace education area. Two instruments are basic in such network activities: a newsletter service and an up-to-date address list. The present miniprint gives current mailing addresses.

INTRODUCTION

The purpose of The International Peace Research Association (IPRA) is to advance interdisciplinary research into the conditions of peace and the causes of war and other forms of violence. IPRA has a number of working groups or commissions that form around important peace-related issues, such as Peace Movements or Women and Peace.

The Peace Education Commission (PEC) is IPRA's oldest specialized body. It was established to facilitate international cooperation among individuals interested in peace education and research related to peace education. It defines peace education in a broad way to include both explicit peace education (dealing for example with facts from peace research) and implicit peace education (dealing among other things with how to educate a new generation to acquire peaceful values and attitudes). PEC has also dealt with peace education at various educational levels (preschool, compulsory school, secondary school, higher education) as well as in the non-formal sector (making the everyday world the classroom).

PEC is semi-independent of IPRA. We recommend that PEC members also be members of IPRA, but according to tradition in this group, non-IPRA peace educators are also accepted in the PEC network.

PEC operates via a Council (see list of Council members below) and an Executive Secretary (at present located at the Malmö School of Education in Sweden). The main ambition of PEC is to serve as a useful network for transnational information and support in the peace education area. Two instruments are basic in such network activities: a newsletter service and an up-todate address list.

At present, PEC works with two types of newsletter: (a) brief and plain "mini-newletters" (just a couple of pages for quick communication); and (b) more "journal-like" newsletters – under the heading "Peace, Environment and Education" – with room for more detailed information and expression of views.

In the present Peace Education Miniprint we publish current mailing addresses for the members of the PEC network (as they are known to the Malmö office at the beginning of October 1993).

For the first time, we also include some telephone and fax numbers in the main list. Even if we have such information only for part of our group, we feel that this information might still be useful. When we have had access to both fax and telephone numbers, we have chosen to inform about the fax number (being aware that fax has some advantages in across-the-globe communication; for example, you can send fax messages in the middle of somebody else's night without bad conscience). When we have had information about both home and office telephones, we have used the office telephone number in the directory.

My hope is that this address list will serve our members well, making it easier to take direct, personal contact with others in our network. If you spot any errors in the list (or if addresses are changed later on), please let me know.
